Report of National level fests

Department of Management Studies, organized a two-day National Level Management Fest Tantra in the year 2017 on 23rd & 24th August. The event was a grand success by the participation of students from various colleges. Tantra provided an opportunity for the students to showcase their talents in various events such as best manager, marketing game, Tantra Premier league, Business quiz, etc. Various rounds of all the events and financial side of the fest were coordinated by students representatives. Faculty responsibility was limited to judging the events. TANTRA readily offered a great platform to battle and molds one's single-minded focus towards a target. Past successful seasons of this mega event had witnessed a myriad of events and a multitude of participants. The student representatives assured a remarkable experience, in terms of competition and exposure of all participants every year.

TECHNITROUS 2K18

Department of Computer Applications organized the National Level IT Fest, '2K18' on the 11th and 12th of January 2018. The fest had over 618 participants from different colleges in and around the state. The fest was completely organized by the students, whereby they were given a great opportunity to polish their leadership, managerial, interaction, and teamwork skills, so that they become more productive in their future work environments. The first day was rich with a lot of events like Coding, IT Quiz, Trendsetter, Gaming, Web Design, Treasure Hunt, Best Actor, Spot Photography, Photoshop Face-Off and so on. The fest was inaugurated by Mr.SijoKuruvilla, Former CEO of Startup Village, Kochi, and Founder of Rethink Foundation. In his inaugural address, he inspired the students about the wide variety of opportunities that awaited them in the industry, and also the need to grab chances and excel in all fields. The inaugural ceremony came to an end with the vote of thanks by Mr.Gokul Krishnan (Student Coordinator, Technitrous 2k18).

Cultural Night

A 'cultural night ' was also arranged in the evening and inaugurated by Dr. Michael Sauer, BOKU University, Austria. The artistic talents of the students were unleashed and the prizes for the winners in various events were distributed during the valedictory function on the second day.

PRANAH 2K17

School of Biosciences organized PRANA 2017, the national level biofest which included popular science lectures, various competitions for college students, science book exhibitions and science exhibitions for school students. The event was funded through sponsorships by the lead of students. Prana2K17 team campaigned against Plastic Pollution in trains running between Tiruvalla and Kottayam on 28th October. They also got permission from Southern Railway Trivandrum Division to construct a vertical garden at Tiruvalla Railway Station using plastic bottles. These projects were completed by the students council initiatives.
