Report on "Chocolate making for prospective entrepreneurs"

2016-2017

MACFAST always extended a helping hand to promote entrepreneurship in the small-scale food industry. With this motive, the School of Biosciences has been organizing different hands-on training programs related to cake baking and chocolate making under the coordination of Mr. Biju Dharmapalan. The training sessions were handled by Mrs. Pinchu Elizabeth Thomas. The programs are mainly aimed at students, businessmen, housewives, entrepreneurs, retired persons, and anyone with a passion for food making and baking. Our students were also a part of this program and assisted the coordinator and resource person right from program organization to volunteering and helping the participants. In 2016-2017, four training sections were conducted and the date of conduct and no of participants in each session are listed below.

Workshop on "Cake making for prospective entrepreneurs"

15-16 of December, 2016

The cake business in India has witnessed massive growth over the last few years due to the increased demand from consumers, the burgeoning cafe-culture and of course, social media. Home-based baking, in particular, has been taken up by a huge number of women entrepreneurs thanks to these reasons. There are many initiatives which are also being taken by the Government of India, which has further encouraged them to pursue their baking dreams. Not just women, quite a few men are also taking up home baking as a profession.

MACFAST has successfully conducted training programmes on Cake making in this regard. A two day training program on cake making, for prospective entrepreneurs was conducted on 15 and 16th of December, 2016. The coordinator of the program was Mrs. Pinchu Elizabeth Thomas and the main sessions were handled by her. The registration was handled by Mr. Biju Dharmapalan, School of Biosciences and 2 students of the department functioned as the programme volunteers. A total of 7 participants attended the training programme.
